Contractors State License Services (CSLS) introduces home inspection training course, BPI Energy Audit training course, NAPCEP Solar PV Photovoltaic Installer training course, and Locksmithing training course.

VAN NUYS, March 08, 2011— Contractors State License Services adds Home Industry training classes its course offerings for the Spring semester.

Students can elect to be trained in one or all of these in-demand professions. Home inspectors earn an average of $76,000* per year. The average inspection takes two to three hours. Energy Auditors are used to establish Home Efficiency and can earn an average of $58,257** per year. Solar PV Photovoltaic installers make an average of $61,000* per year. Demand for Locksmiths is projected to increase by 25% in the next 4 years*.

These courses will provide a great experience for anyone who has an interest in homes and has an eye for detail.

This first-time offering was created in partnership with American Home Inspectors Training (AHIT), a national leader in home industry training and based in Waukesha, Wisconsin. AHIT is the largest provider of professional home industry training in North America and has been training for over 15 years. The class can be taken online or in a traditional classroom setting. Tuition costs include course materials and tips on how to start your own home industry business.
